

TESTIMONIAL FOR 3 YALLAMBEE PLACE, CITY BEACH

Well, where do we start.... WOW, OMG, it's absolutely amazing! The words we used as the final reveal took place. However, words rarely do justice to the real feelings and emotions you truly have when your dreams are realised.

Let's us take you back to the beginning.

In late 2020 we were on the search for a builder to design and build our home. We canvassed several luxury home builders and the recommendations and feedback from various market sources kept coming back to one company. "Humphrey Homes."

It was at this point where we really started to understand why. In-house architect and design service, interior design team, and a company with an absolute obsession for quality. Dean being the HIA President at the time was probably the sealer. This was a seamless all encompassing service which was exactly what we were looking for.

What was also clearly evident from the very first meeting is the passion that resonated from Dean and everyone we met at Humphrey Homes. They love building and creating high-end quality homes. This passion extends beyond the management team and is clearly seen across every trade and every business they partner with through the build process. They truly have an awesome team of trades men and women and network of suppliers that deliver quality at every stage.

Loyalty is a rare commodity these days however we believe this is a point of difference that Dean and his team have earned and is critically important when you have a timeline. This gave us a great sense of confidence knowing that every week progress was being made on our home. To create that type of loyalty you must have integrity as a person and as a company. We built in one of the toughest periods the industry had encountered in many years and Humphrey Homes delivered in spades despite the adversity facing the industry. This is why we would recommend Humphrey Homes to anyone. If they can deliver in these times just imagine what they can do when business and supply chains start to improve again.

For anyone looking for a builder today there are a few stand out points we would like to emphasise.

In-house Architect

Helen's incredible architectural talent is beautifully complemented by her warm, friendly, and approachable personality. Her welcoming demeanour and genuine interest in understanding our needs made the entire design process a delightful experience. Helen's ability to connect on a personal level while maintaining a high level of professionalism is a rare and valuable trait, ensuring not just a successful project, but also a positive and enjoyable collaboration. Her amiable nature truly made every interaction with her a pleasure, turning what could have been a daunting process into a wonderfully engaging journey.

Interior Design

Katie equally talented, warm and friendly, led our interior design and immediately provided the guidance to ensure our selections were aligned to the overall aesthetic and design theme we were seeking. Katie's visionary expertise and meticulous attention to detail enabled us to maintain the high-end quality throughout the home right through to final staging. Joie's talent and experience was leaned on at numerous stages as she managed other projects however her support to Katie and us at various stages was crucial to bring the entire home to completion. Together, they crafted a remarkable space. Their combined efforts created an outstanding interior design experience.

Build Quality

Probably the most significant feature of a Humphrey Homes built home is the overall build quality. Gavin's uncompromising commitment to best practise and standards is a credit to him as a Construction Manager and this was evident through every stage of our build. Whilst Gavin has a fantastic support team it's easy to understand why Dean trusts Gavin with his reputation as a builder.

Today we look back on our decision to trust Dean and the team at Humphrey Homes and we can say without any hesitation that our decision was fully ratified. The entire process and journey was a consultative one that was presented from day one.

"Expectations Exceeded"

We would be only too happy to detail our experiences further with anyone interested in building or renovating a home. We are now looking forward to living our dream.
