Building my home with Humphrey Homes has been a fun, seamless and ultimately very rewarding process.

After just a few meetings, it was amazing how quickly the very basic concept in my mind evolved into the house I wanted to live in. The value of having it architecturally designed stood out in the way in which elements of the block were utilised to maximise the key aspects of the build.

Having the expertise of an interior designer added that extra element of style to the house and suited my desire to minimise the amount of time I spent looking at products and making decisions.

The amount of care given to the build by all who worked on it meant that I had no need to constantly check on the progress other than for my own enjoyment.

The care given to the construction process was evident at every step and the build took the intended amount of time, not even skipping a beat in the face of a pandemic.

Thanks to all at Humphrey Homes who have delivered a home that I am loving living in.

Best regards, Claire
